

PRINCIPAL – PARENT INTERACTION

CLASS : CAM 1 and CAM 2

DATE : 23.02.21

The communication between educators and parents is crucial, particularly regarding a child's social, emotional, and cognitive development. This communication should be ongoing with constant feedback on both ends and should follow each child's own unique experiences and growth.

With this positive note, an interactive session was organized for the parents of CAM 1-2, with respected Principal Mam. The objective was to inform parents of concerns right away, and explain strategies that have been used to address any problems and strategies that will be used in the future. Principal Mam addressed the parents present in the audience and urged them to bring out their concerns and feedback for the online classes as well as the performance of the kids during the online classes. The parents appreciated the efforts put in by the educators while teaching online and how they managed to deliver the classes so efficiently. Some concerns highlighted by the parents were long screen time and differentiated teaching. While discussing any issues, educators made sure to explain ways parents can help at home that will reinforce any learning that is going on in the classroom. Educators also stressed upon regular reading at home to make the students, independent readers. Also, the need to be regular at completing the tasks. This kind of interactive communication creates parents who are supportive, understanding, and trusting of the educator's intentions. When successful communication occurs, parents become more engaged and involved in class and school wide events. Strong parent-teacher communication improves academic performance in children and provides a great feeling of community.
