

A Taste of Power: Exercising democracy

On a lovely summer morning of 18th April, 2016 the young Agarsanians exercised their voting rights to elect the school Head Boy and Head Girl for both Primary and Senior classes.

After the prayer ceremony all the candidates introduced themselves and presented their candidature through their promising speeches. The students were encouraged to take the vote seriously and vote for those candidates that they feel will be able to best lead the school council and make things happen. All the students and the teachers voted for their favourite candidates in the respective categories. The school tried to make it as near to the voting experience as possible. Electoral stain was used to put a voting mark on every voter's forefinger. The idea behind it was to enable the students to cherish the moment and, also, to carry the mark as a symbol of pride.

It was a successful day as the students by were able to experience democracy and realize its power.
